A Language for Intimacy

Boston Center for the Arts partners with New York's Abrons Arts Center for an exhibition about connecting in this time of isolation, upheaval, and societal reckoning. It pairs writing with art, one spelunking into the deep cave of the other, and takes us from the inside of a pregnant woman's body to the jetties of Sicily. At times playful, "A Language for Intimacy" is nonetheless prickly, a reminder that intimacy requires exposure. Through Aug. 30.
